OBJECTIVE

As a final-year software engineering student nearing graduation, with a strong foundation in web and mobile application development, I am passionate about building innovative software solutions. Through years of hands-on experience in academic projects, I have developed practical skills across the full-stack development process. Driven by a deep interest in AI, my goal is to leverage cutting-edge technologies and AI-powered methodologies to enhance learning experiences, streamline development workflows, and help revolutionize traditional software engineering practices while continuously improving efficiency and innovation.
